 Having Been Described In Words
 Part One
 Part Two
 Part Three, "Last Minute"
 September 11. 1973.
 Michael Asher. film screening

3 NAME this is the reference name. whatever is in this field will not show up on the site. It is used purely for html purposes. When inputting the name of an artist/show, do not use accents and/or symbols. Use names that will be easy for you to remember.

4 NAME_LIST name of the show that will show up in the following lists on orchard47.org:

Current Exhibition:
Nicolás Guagnini: The Middle Class Goes to Heaven
Dan Graham: Death by Chocolate

Future Exhibition:
Sylvia Rivera Law Project Art Opening
Zoe Leonard, Petra Wunderlich, Christian Philipp Müller

Past Exhibitions:
Vera
Heard Not Seen
Having Been Described In Words
Part One

A note on the difference between NAME and NAME_LIST. Name one may be an abbreviation of the referenced show name so it's easier to remember. Name 2 is the name that will actually appear on the site. For example, in the following image, the show name that appears on the website is "Polish Socialists Conceptualism of the 70s", but the reference name is "Poles".

In the database:

name	varchar(255)	<input type="text"/>	Poles
name_list	varchar(255)	<input type="text"/>	Polish Socialist Conceptualism of the 70s

On the website:

Current Exhibition:

10 INFO main description

On website:

Like the son of William Tell, standing there nervously with an apple perched on his head, caught between The State and its brutal enforcement of the Law (metonymically represented by a hat on a pole) and the distended individualism of his father, Orchard makes an attempt at a painting exhibition.

Perhaps now more than any other period in recent memory, the presumption of an immaculate self-identity between the objects that go by the name "painting" and the subjects given the name "painter" goes unquestioned. While we might welcome the new readiness to allow the practice of painting to generate its own
